KING GEORGE AND QUEEN ELIZABETH ESCAPE INJURY WHEN BOMBS AGAIN CRASH ON PALACE

Terrific Four Hour and Ten Minute Raid by German War
Planes — Private Chapel of Palace Completely Wrecked — Damage Was Heavy

(By Charles A. Smith, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 13.—King George and Queen Elizabeth, symbols of majesty in an empire fighting for its life, escaped injury today when bombs crashed on Buckingham Palace during a terrific four hour and ten minute raid by German war planes.
The private chapel of the Palace, where the sovereigns have retired to pray for victory almost daily since the war began, was completely wrecked.
A brief official announcement failed to indicate whether the bombing was accidental or represented a deliberate attempt to snuff out the lives of Britain's monarchs.
But investigation showed the damage was heavy—far exceeding that caused on Tuesday when a delayed action bomb went off just beyond the north wall of the Palace, shattering scores of windows and cracking the swimming pool.
Five bombs hit the Palace and its spacious grounds today. Two fell in the inner quadrangle, apparently doing small damage.
A third crashed into the private chapel. The other two fell in the roadway between the Victoria Memorial and the palace gates.
The Royal Chapel, which is close to the Ambassadors' entrance to the Palace, was demolished, its ancient wood-carving smashed to splinters, its altar wrecked, statues pulverized and baptismal font reduced to rubble.
The King and Queen had taken shelter deep in the subterranean recesses when the air raid sirens sounded. The entire palace personnel with the sole exception of "danger watchers" who never leave their posts, had taken to places of safety as well. The royal apartments, which are in the north wing, were unscathed. The chapel is in the south wing.

According to the police the boys claim to have divided the loot after each robbery.
August 23rd at two o'clock in the morning the boys forced an entrance into the Lawler store on Bath street. They broke open a window and got three cartons of cigarettes and a box of cigars. They also said that they obtained 93 cents in money.

Planning A Coup

Budapest, Sept. 13.—Amid new anti-government demonstrations in Bucharest, pro-Fascist Iron Guards today were reportedly planning a coup d'etat against the Romanian government.
Openly defying a ban on uniforms by Romania's new dictator, General Antonescu, thousands of Iron Guards last night thronged Bucharest streets singing seditious songs.
Fears that the Iron Guards, storm center of Romanian politics for the past decade, would attempt to oust Antonescu and seize control of the government were expressed in dispatches reaching Budapest which said that a "show down" between the new dictator and Horia Sima, leader of the Iron Guards, was inevitable.
Antonescu, seeking to keep the situation under control, issued a new appeal to the Iron Guard to respect and preserve public order by discipline and self-control.
Despite this appeal serious disorders were expected tonight and great numbers of troops were concentrated in Bucharest.

Millinder's Fate in Hands of Jury

Bellefonte, Sept. 13.—The fate of 22-year-old Richard Millinder, on trial for the brutal attack-slashing of Faye Gates, his neighbor and cousin of his wife, today rested with a home-spun jury of nine men and three women.
Testimony on the case was concluded late last night when counsel for Millinder pleaded with the jury to consider the circumstances surrounding the reported confessions signed by his client. Millinder told the jury that he realized at the time he was signing a statement of something he did not do but that he was so tired he "didn't care what happened."

1,500,000 Men To Register

Harrisburg, Sept. 13.—Approximately 1,500,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35 will have to register in Pennsylvania under the provisions of the draft law as now drawn up and which appear headed for enactment soon. It was estimated today by the State Department of Military Affairs.
Based on estimates for the nation as a whole made by the War Department, it was predicted that of this number approximately 454,000 would be subject to conscription in Pennsylvania for a year of Army training.

LANGHORNE LANDMARK IS NOW BEING RAZED

One of Oldest Carriage Shops
In Section Has Been Condemned

MANY ONCE EMPLOYED

LANGHORNE, Sept. 13.—One of Langhorne's oldest landmarks here, the L. Langhorne Wagon and Carriage shop is being razed following condemnation by local officials. The property was operated as a carriage shop by the late John P. Black, and later by his son, the late Wilmer S. Black. For the past two years it has been operated as a garage and repair shop for automobiles by James S. Wilson.
According to available information the shop was started in 1869 by John P. Black, who operated the plant until his death in March, 1925. At that time, Wilmer S. Black took over his father's business. When automobiles came into prominence, the name of the shop was changed to the Langhorne Wagon and Automobile Shop. At one time it was classed as one of the five largest carriage manufacturing plants in Eastern Pennsylvania. The other four plants, all prominent in this section of the country, were the shops of Aaron Kratz, Plumsteadville; James V. Randall, Newtown; Wilson Randall, Bristol, and George Rose and Sons, Newportville.
Each Spring it was the custom of these plants to hold large sales of carriage wagons and other motive equipment. These sales drew hundreds of people from all sections of the country.
A large number of residents from Langhorne and nearby towns were employed in the Black shop. Many of them have died or moved to other sections of the country, but among the names appear the following: Wood-George M. Wildman, Frank Allen, Thomas McGowan, William Marple, Jr., Warren Starkey, Joseph Matthews, Mahlon Vandegriff, Charles Mitchell, Isaac Roberts, Edward A. Vansant, Frank Trumbauer, Franklin Zebely.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

With 550 members of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County attending the September meeting of the wide-awake organization at their headquarters in Buckingham, announcement was made by President Harris Holmes that the October meeting will be "Candidates' Night," and open to the public.
President Holmes also announced that 125 new members have been added to the club roster within the past two weeks, among them being many former New Dealers and old-line Democrats who have openly declared their intentions of working and voting for Wendell Willkie for President.
In the absence of Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livengood, who was to have spoken but was prevented because of a conflicting date, Ralph Umstead, of Philadelphia, general counsel for the Department of Revenue, spoke briefly. One of the best informed political speakers today, Umstead pointed out the glaring mistakes of the Roosevelt administration and warned against a sure participation in the present war if Roosevelt is elected for a third term.

Other speakers included Charles Fisher, of Reading, president of the Association of Railroaders of Pennsylvania, and his secretary, William Reiter, of Philadelphia.

Featuring the combination sale held Tuesday afternoon on the premises of the Rice brothers, at Solebury, was the disposal of 93 head of sheep, all of which sold for fairly good prices. Ewes brought from $3.40 to $6 each and rams sold as high as $12.50 each.
In general the cattle sale was rather dull. Not a cow, heifer or horse was sold. One bull brought $52 and 13 calves were sold at good prices. Only one goat was sold, it bringing $2.
Hog prices were somewhat higher, and almost all of the 100 head offered were sold. Prices were as follows: fat hogs, $10.20 to $16.25 each; sows, $4 to $8; shoats, $4 to $7.50, and small pigs, $1.30 to $3.50.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

The Indomitable Leader
Washington, Sept. 12.
IT IS difficult to understand how anyone, not heavily imbued with British hate and impregnated by the Nazi philosophy, could have listened to, or read, the words of Mr. Winston Churchill on Wednesday last without being deeply moved.
THERE have been few nobler utterances. Nor can anyone recall a more critical moment in which a national leader has addressed his people. In her whole history, England has never faced as formidable a foe nor made as gallant a fight for as great a stake. Nor has she had a more adequate and indomitable leader.
IT was a thrilling thing to hear Mr. Churchill describe the tremendous ordeal through which the people of England are now passing and disclose, in detail, his knowledge of the grand-scale preparations of Mr. Hitler for her invasion. His incomparable choice of words would have made any speech notable. But far more than the words themselves was the spirit they breathed, the conviction they carried and the character they revealed of the man responsible for them.
LISTENING to him, words such as "appeasement," "conciliation," "peace terms" and "surrender" seem shameless and shocking when used in connection with the English situation, desperate though it is. Listening to him, it was impossible not to recognize that here is the unshakable, unconquerable leader to whom the mere thought of capitulation is far more abhorrent than death and to whom it never occurs that victory will not be his in the end. The possibility of defeat is not one which this man recognizes—or ever will. Listening to him could not fail to spread

TWO DRUNKEN DRIVERS

One Man Re-Arrested For Allegedly Breaking His Parole

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 13.—Twice convicted of arson, Adam Greenberg, Buckingham Township, filed an appeal on Wednesday and the same was ordered to operate as a supersedeas and order, pending his appeal to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania. Greenberg was released in $5,000 bail by Judge Calvin S. Boyer. Greenberg was twice convicted of arson.
Judge Boyer, who sentenced Greenberg to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $300, and serve not less than six months nor more than two years in the county prison, ordered the appeal, filed in the Court of Quarter Sessions here.
Greenberg's counsel, Wilbur H. Vandine, of this place; Theodore R. Gardner and David Getz, both of Allentown, filed the petition.
Judge Boyer's order granted making the appeal and supersedeas to stay the sentence imposed Wednesday morning. Judge Boyer on September 9 overruled motions for a new trial.

Plan To Inaugurate Student Activity Tickets

The Bristol High School faculty, in response to the desire of the student body, is preparing to inaugurate a student activity ticket system for the 1940-41 school program.
The system seeks to lessen the necessity for many sundry expenditures throughout the school year, since payment for these tickets provides admission to all regularly paid student functions: football, basketball, baseball, track, gym exhibitions, band concert, operetta, spring concert, and Rambler subscription.
Based on a pre-determined minimum sale of 500 tickets, the price per ticket has been set at $2.25, much less than the total cost for regular attendance at football and basketball games alone.
It is felt that in addition to relieving the financial strain on both parents and pupils, the system will provide an opportunity for better attendance and support of all school activities during the coming season.

GOOD IDEA IF IT WORKS

THE MAIN LANDSLIDE

There is both prophecy and hope in the results of the state election in Maine, and try as they would the New Dealers have been unable to minimize the importance or portent of the Republican landslide.

The indisputable fact is that always in the past when Maine went Republican in the state election in September by majorities as overwhelming as those of this year, the nation went Republican in November.

In 1936—as New Dealers will not let anyone forget—Maine went Republican in September, and the nation went New Deal in November. But the Republican victory in Maine was a close squeak that year. The Republican candidate for United States Senator won by only 4,000 majority.

The Willkie campaign has emerged from the dog days, traditionally a period during which political interest languishes, in excellent form. Most political observers, as of the moment, give him the edge. The Maine results and the first great campaign tour upon which Mr. Willkie is now embarking will undoubtedly enhance Republican prospects still further.

What is worrying New Dealers, now that they have seen the Maine handwriting on the ballots, is the ineffectiveness of the Roosevelt campaign strategy. They are rapidly becoming convinced that the gag of the unwilling candidate who didn't want to run and will not make any political speeches has been overworked, and was rather a crackpot idea in the first place.

The inner circle of the New Deal is becoming convinced that the third term candidate must desert his pose of allowing himself to be lured from one defense project to another for the benefit of the cameras, with a few "non-political" orations tossed off along the way, and recognize that attempting to remain in the White House for twelve years is not school boy play.

The Maine election again confirms the opinion that has been growing ever since the President's attempt to pack the Supreme Court, and which was given substantiation at the polls in 1938—that 1940 is a Republican year. The anti-third term candidate now starts out to meet the voters face to face under happy auspices.

A St. Louis physician calls attention to a preventive medicine which takes the sting out of the cold gray dawn of the morning after. Those who have given it a trial say staying at home the night before is good for that, too.

"Look at your lead pencil and see if it is marked 'Made in Germany,'" cautions an alarmed editor. Always, eager to please, we have looked at ours and it isn't.

30 Known Dead, and 20 Missing in Explosion

They did not know what had happened. New fires started every now and then as tanks of alcohol ignited. Throughout the night fire apparatus from miles around fought the flames which lit up the sky.

The plant employs about 1,500 men, a peace-time peak due to the fact the company was engaged in filling $2,800,000 in United States Army orders. Four hundred of these men were in the grounds when the first of the blasts blew dozens of them skyward.

Hospitals in neighboring towns were quickly filled with dead and dying men. Because of the confusion that prevailed it required considerable time to make identifications. Police were busy for hours re-routing traffic and keeping the curious away from the scene because of the danger from threatened new explosions.

Searchers were still digging in the ruins this morning for the 20 or more missing men. The fires continued to smoulder and flare up and they were having difficulty as a result.

Under motorcycle escort, William C. Hunt, director of operations, came to the scene from the company's main headquarters at Wilmington, Del. He was accompanied by Colonel Henry Marsh, the company's smokeless powder expert. They made an inspection of the premises.

Hunt, after talking to survivors and making a general investigation, said it was impossible to learn how the fire started, but that no immediate evidence of sabotage had been found. He said the company was not making anything for shipment abroad. He said the company was working for the United States Government. He declined, however, to affirm or deny whether some of the company's product was being made for the British.

Hunt told reporters the company had been hiring new men recently because of government orders, and had made its own investigation of applicants without asking government agencies to co-operate.

It was reported that the company had received a list of 2,000 men identified as having attended meetings of the German-American Bund at nearby Camp Nordland.

"We do not suspect any one," said Hunt. "It was an explosion that cannot be accounted for at this time."

At the company headquarters in Wilmington, Charles A. Higgins said: "It was a ghastly accident, which we all deplore."

Other officials declared it was impossible to determine whether sabotage was responsible until a thorough investigation is made by experts. Denying reports it had been easy to gain access to the plant, they said the company had an elaborate guard and pass system.

The FBI, the Army and the Navy all sent investigators to the scene. So did the State Police and the prosecutor's office of Morris County.

Kenvil, scene of the disaster, is located about 40 miles from New York City on the main highway from New York through New Jersey to Stroudsburg, Pa. It is six miles from Dover, the nearest city, where windows in homes and stores were smashed.

Throughout the small community of Kenvil, havoc was wrought by the blasts. Telephone wires were torn loose, windows broken, furniture smashed and power service disrupted.

SYNOPSIS

Ronny Rokaby, crooner "Crown Prince of the Air," has "Ginger" Drake, talented performer, blacklisted because she will not marry him. Her booking agent says she cannot get a job even as hat-check girl in the city. However, he offers her a spot at the Club Caribbean at Miami, on condition that she get there Monday. Ginger jumps at the opportunity, but is at a loss to know how to get there, as her finances are low. Then she reads an item in the personal column of a newspaper that one Tony Taylor will take passengers to Florida on a share-expenses basis amounting to $14. She telephones her reservation.

CHAPTER III

Ginger hung up, and stared for a long moment at the telephone. It was done. For the first time it occurred to her that this man was a stranger—the other share-expenses equal strangers. Still, there would be women along. Leaving the booth, she found herself wondering whether or not she would have gone anyway, if there had been no other lady passengers. In her heart, she knew she would not have, but she told herself that she would. All that counted in life at the moment was that she reached the Club Caribbean in Miami, by Monday noon.

The other end of the telephone line Ginger had just disconnected was in a bar in West 52nd Street, that was popular with certain Park Avenue bloods and visiting collegians. It was not a very original bar.

The lanky, broad-shouldered young man with the unruly hair and the friendly grin, hung up the receiver picked up his drink, and made himself comfortable again at the bar. The glass was nearly empty, and he ordered a repeat. "Don't spare the ponies, Jimmie—this is the last shot of poison I'll be letting you give me, for a long time."

"Going away, Mr. Taylor?"

"Tomorrow morning, at the crack of dawn," He waxed confidential. "I'm taking the road south, Jimmie—the road to romance and adventure. With an ex-lion tamer and a lady Thespian for company. The lion-tamer is bringing a cat, and the lady a tropical fish. There's another couple going, too; lord knows what they'll bring, probably a whale. And a girl—the one I was just talking to on the phone."

"What is it—a road company?" "No—a caravan to the Fountain of Youth," said Mr. Taylor, grandiloquently.

"But how come you're not going back to New Haven?" Jimmie wanted to know.

"Yale College and Anthony Taylor, Junior, have parted company, by mutual consent," said the latter. "Thrown out again, eh?"

"Not again," said Mr. Taylor, late of New Haven, severely. "For the last time. The third and last, incidentally."

"Zat so?" said Jimmie. "What you gotta do to get thrown out of college like that, Mr. Taylor?"

"In my case," said Tony, "it was merely a question of conflicting principles."

"You don't say . . ." Jimmie was a good listener.

"Principles that are at this very moment changing the face of civilization, Jimmie. The right of the common man to earn his daily bread. The right of self-determination for the masses. The right of the proletariat against the money-grasping capitalist."

"Which side were you on, Mr. Taylor?"

"The side of freedom, of course, Jimmie. You ought to know that!"

"Oh, he's filthy rich all right," said Tony. "He owns bus lines, taxi companies and even a railroad."

"Which freedom, Mr. Taylor?" "The poor man's, of course," Tony set down his drink. "Do you realize, Jimmie—that only a hundred rich men practically own the wealth of the United States of America?"

Jimmie wiped a glass, and grinned.

"And isn't it your father, that's one of them, Mr. Taylor?" "I wouldn't be surprised," said Tony, sadly. "A fellow can pick his pals, Jimmie—but he can't pick his progenitor. You know that. Not that the old man isn't a great guy, when he wants to be. It's just that his thinking is wrong. He's been too busy making money all his life to think about his fellow man."

"Worked up from a motorman on a trolley-car to president of the street-car company, didn't he?"

"Oh, he's filthy rich all right," said Tony. "He owns bus lines, taxi companies, and even a railroad. I hate to say it, but I'm ashamed of him."

"You're . . . what?" demanded Jimmie, gaping.

"Don't misunderstand me," said Tony. "It's not Dad I don't approve of—it's what he represents. Now, if he'd only share his money with the masses—"

"Excuse me, Mr. Taylor—let me get this straight," Jimmie was definitely puzzled. "You want your dad to give away his millions?"

"Of course I do," declared Tony earnestly. "I believe the rich should share their wealth. I think everyone should share everything, for that matter."

this pounding. And yet he could assert in simple, convincing, electric words that in the end England would survive and the English cause, which is the cause of freedom all over the world, would surely triumph. It was this that enabled him to say that this frightful bombing, so far from weakening the fiber of the British people, has kindled a fire in their hearts that would burn long after the last trace of the destruction wrought had disappeared.

LISTENING TO Mr. Churchill on this side of the Atlantic, you believed what he said, and you believed that the British people, listening to him over there, believed it too. Because you knew in your heart that he believed it himself—every solemn, measured word of it. There could be no doubt of that. It deepened the conviction that the British cause is really our cause. It enhanced the desire to see this nation help with every ounce of strength it has. It increased impatience over delay in doing it.

ments, activities will begin shortly after one o'clock p. m., with a number of races for both men and women. The races will be the type that were used in the old fashioned picnic, and prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Floyd Yocum, chairman of the program committee, told the group, that arrangements have been completed for music for dancing and that the floor is large enough to accommodate several hundred couples.

Among some of the games arranged are the peanut scramble, pie eating contest (blueberry pies), wheelbarrow race, and numerous other races.

Committees for preparing foodstuffs and refreshments were named by chairman James Laughlin. Mrs. Minnie Bartholomae will head the committee for food preparation; while Mrs. Martha Morgan will have charge of the waitresses and waiters. James Robinson heads a committee of men on refreshments.

George Sutton, ticket committee chairman, made a favorable report and predicted that 1,000 will attend. It was announced by Chief Linford Morgan that many of the fire companies throughout the lower end of the county are sending delegations to the picnic to show their good will and support in the drive for a new firehouse in Croydon. The picnic will be the beginning of the drive.

The regular meeting of Croydon Fire Company was postponed until next Wednesday evening by president Charles J. Winchester to make way for the joint meeting which lasted several hours. All of those present showed great interest and a willingness to work for the new project. As chairman Laughlin closed the meeting he spoke to those present and thanked them for their interest and support. He said: "With enthusiasm like this we are assured of success in our drive, and I feel sure it will not be long before we can get the new fire house under construction. Let us all continue to put our shoulder to the wheel and this end will be accomplished within a very short time."

Greenberg Appeals Case To Superior Court of State

four months nor more than three years in the County Prison, June 10 was granted a parole on Monday when he assured the Court he would not drink again. He had just been released from prison on a charge of drunken driving.

Sheriff William L. Stackhouse who arrested Bednarchick at the "Moonlight Gardens" at Jamison, where he was seated at a table, although he did not seem to be under the influence of intoxicating liquors, testified that Bednarchick complained of being ill.

Bednarchick, who took the stand, denied that he had been drinking but insisted that he was ill and that was why he couldn't work on Tuesday. His roommate, who was employed by the same farmer in that section, said Bednarchick came home intoxicated on Monday evening and that on Tuesday morning Bednarchick didn't report for work but walked down the road.

Mr. Jamison, who promised to employ the defendant again when he is released, testified "Bednarchick is a good worker when he doesn't drink."

"Didn't you get the impression that the Court meant you were not to drink or use any alcoholic beverages while you were on parole?" District Attorney Edward B. Blester asked Bednarchick, who didn't answer.

Bednarchick was recommitted for the balance of the maximum term but Judge Boyer indicated that he will be permitted to make application for another parole providing his health is improved and his behavior good.

William Snyder, 436 Summit avenue, Willow Grove, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was sentenced by President Judge Hiram H. Keller to serve not less than two months nor more than two years. He was arrested by Private Kenneth E. Stumpf, of the Doylestown sub-station of the Penna. Motor Police, August 31. He was pronounced unfit to drive a car by Dr. H. T. Crough, who examined him.

Edward F. Brown, of New Hope, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving before Judge Boyer on Monday, was permitted to re-appear in court next Wednesday morning when his case will be disposed of pending the application of a loan from the Solebury National Bank.

Two Quakertown boys, David Lambrecht, Jr., 130 East Broad street, and Edward Denbecki, who pleaded guilty to larceny and receiving stolen goods before President Judge Keller, were given suspended sentences and placed on probation.

The defendants, who were arrested July 10 by Chief of Police Harry B.

Wojcik of Quakertown, stole cast iron pipes. They made restitution to the owner, William Hackman. The pipes valued at $12 or $13.

Pleading guilty to drunken driving, Jacob Shivo, Jr., Ottsville, was sentenced by President Judge Hiram H. Keller to pay a fine of $150 and the costs of prosecution.

Shivo's operator's license was revoked for speeding a short time ago. In the absence of Private Akiba Liebergall, Penna. Motor Policeman, who arrested the defendant, near Revere, June 29, District Attorney Edward G. Blester read the officer's report to the Court.

The defendant drank gin before dinner and was arrested in the evening when Private Liebergall noticed the defendant's car leave the highway.

There was no accident.

Russell T. Ferris and William Sassam were character witnesses.

FOOD MARKET

Advice

THIS would be an excellent week to concentrate on fish and poultry for the main course as a rising wholesale market has made prices of most somewhat higher than last week.

For fresh meats, beef chunks, fresh hams, fresh calls and spareribs are the best buys. Among smoked meats put smoked butts and smoked calls on the list of the most economical meats.

Veal is not recommended this week. However, to offset the increased prices of meat are continued low prices in poultry, a plentiful supply of fresh fish on the market and such a wide variety of fresh fruits and vegetables that one can go heavy on these latter.

Oysters In

Since September has "R" in it, tradition says that the oyster season is beginning. The best crop in five years is reported. Meanwhile, New York, Boston and Baltimore fish markets all have good news this week. From Boston plentiful supplies of mackerel and salmon are reported and large quantities of New Brunswick lobsters are expected to arrive during the week. Hard and soft shell clams are plentiful and attractively priced. Receipts of swordfish are falling off and the price of this fish is up somewhat. Due to the chain store system of mass merchandising and distribution these fish are now available at considerable discount from the source of supply.

Plentiful supplies of flounders and yellow tails are arriving in the New York market as well as ample supplies of halibut and salmon and there are good quantities of medium sized shrimp. In the Baltimore market the production of crab meat is unusually heavy and there is a corresponding drop in price. Butterfish is plentiful and reasonably priced. Red snapper is somewhat scarce.

Big Grape Crop

The supply of Tokay grapes which started last week has increased so much that these grapes, as well as the seedless variety, are among the best fruit buys of the week. Small sized oranges are the best citrus fruit buy. There are still plenty of honeydew melons on the market and the quality is excellent. New Persian and Casaba melons are beginning to arrive from California.

In the New York area the rains had some effect on vegetables but prices are little changed from last week. Squash is at the height of its season, sweet potatoes are getting lower in price from week to week. There are some large Spanish onions in the market at reasonable prices, and among other specially good buys are beets, cabbage, celery, corn, carrots and potatoes.

The cool weather has improved the quality of eggs, which are still moderately priced, particularly for this season of the year. The arrival of cool weather means that pies and puddings will have an especial appeal as desserts and no housekeeper need feel extravagant in using plenty of eggs.

A Sunday menu based on reasonably priced items in the market this week follows:

County Seat Tuition Students To 337

The present total enrollment is 1101 this year compared with 1084 last term.

There are 55 pupils in the eighth grade which is the smallest grade in the school.

The high school enrollment is as follows: Freshmen, 90; sophomores, 146; juniors, 124; seniors, 116.

Following a discussion of using the high school auditorium for political meetings, it was decided by the board not to continue the practice. President William H. Satterthwaite, Jr., who said there has been some comment about using the high school auditorium for political meetings, pointed out that the practice will be discontinued, but that political groups which have not as yet met in the high school auditorium, but wish to and will pay the rental fee of $20, may have one chance at it. "After the first round the school board will not make it a practice of renting the school auditorium to political groups."

Mr. Haldeman said the school buildings are in fine shape externally and internally, and read a letter from a company informing him that the boilers have been inspected and are in first-class condition.

Treasurer Wesley Bunting reported the sum of $18,639.25 in the treasury, and following the annual custom checks for the teachers will be issued Friday, September 20th, five days ahead of the regular schedule of the teachers who are getting their first pay for the term.

Secretary Walter M. Carwithen, Sr., reported having received a bill from G. E. Bullard, local tree surgeon, for $140 for the removal of a tree, a stump, and the digging up and providing about 500 pounds of plant food for another tree on the school grounds.

Reporting on the operation of the school system, Mr. Haldeman said it is being run on a 6-3-3 plan which includes the separate subject program, beginning with the seventh grade.

Mr. Haldeman explained that a boy or girl can fail in one subject for instance in the seventh grade, and yet take eighth grade subjects with the exception of the seventh grade failure. It also makes for more flexibility in the high school grades permitting pupils to carry subjects in an advanced grade but having to complete a subject before passing on with a clean bill of promotion.

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 13 — Sixty-three-year-old Elmer Espenship, Norristown harness race owner and driver, is in Doylestown hospital, undergoing observation and treatment for injuries received yesterday afternoon. He was thrown off his sulky and knocked unconscious on the three-quarter turn of the last heat of the 2.24 trot.

His mare, Mamie Brewer, stumbled along the inside rail. Espenship had won the first heat in 2:11, finished fourth in the second mile and was placed fifth in the third heat. He received lacerations of the face, an eye injury and shock. The horse was not injured.

Some 8000 watched the big Thursday racing program, with three harness events and one running race for amateur riders.

The three-year-old trot went to Jaffa, by Captain Dewey, Dr. W. J. Perkins' Honesdale, Pa., filly, with Ed Brown driving.

The three-year-old pace was won by Sketz, by His Majesty, W. B. Eckert's Reading entry, driven by Poly Sipe, in straight heats. Dewey Hanover, owned by George Ryno, Plainfield, N. J., and driven by Dick Baker, won the 2.24 trot.

dreth Park on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

The baseball fans of this area are primed for the occasion and it is expected that the fence around Landreth's field will bulge with the crowd.

Both managers have agreed upon their line-ups and each has submitted a list of players to the other. No padding of teams is to be permitted.

Ever since the organization of the Landreth team here it has been Johnny Mulholland's aim to schedule the two teams. Each year challenges have been hurled and this year it has been answered by the Landreth team.

It was stated today by Manager Landreth that a list of the players for each team will be made public tomorrow.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE

The Bristol A. A. football team will hold a practice on Leedom's ground on Sunday morning at 10 a. m. Last week several of last season's "Rock" team reported for practice, namely: Jake Thomas, plugging back; Teddy Sak, of last season Bristol High; Walt and Ed Bartle, Terry McGovern, of last season Bensalem High; Casparra, of last year Rec team, and several other promising recruits. The practice will really get under way this week-end. Manager Mulholland still wants more players out as he expects to carry 20 players. The season will open in about three weeks.

Lakes in This Area Stocked With Catfish

With the stocking of 4800 yellow and white catfish in the canal, Silver Lake, and Lake Louise yesterday, and another shipment of large mouth bass to be stocked in the same waters this afternoon, fishermen in this section can look forward to a better fishing season next year.

The catfish, which were distributed yesterday, include 2,000 in the canal between Bristol and Morrisville; 2,400 in the Mill Pond, now known as Silver Lake; and 400 in Lake Louise, located along the Neshaminy Creek in Bensalem Township. The fish ranged in size from 5 to 14 inches.

Brought here on a special truck from the Torresdale Hatcheries, the catfish were originally taken from the channel of the Delaware River below Wilmington, Del. This explains the size of the fish since hatcheries do not normally raise them to this size in the hatchery tanks and pools.

The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has indicated that another shipment of large mouth bass will be distributed in the same waters this afternoon. This shipment will be followed at a later date this fall by others, thus assuring good fishing for next year.

Tests made earlier this season indicated that Silver Lake is a good body of water for game fish and the lake is to be stocked with good-sized fish. By stocking with good-sized fish this season will mean that the lake will be open next year to fishing. The original plan of the Commission was to keep this body closed to fishing for the next three years, but because of action on the part of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association the plans were changed.

Two Youths Admit Robbing Five Places

was at about 12:30 in the morning. A candy vending machine in the theatre was rifled and $30 taken.

Then the next place was the Bristol Dump Wash Laundry which was broken into on September 5th. Here the two each took a pair of pants and a shirt.

At three o'clock on the morning of September 7th the restaurant of Rose Yocum, Radcliffe street, was broken into. Cigarette machine was smashed and 50 packs of cigarettes were stolen and $12 in cash.

The last robbery was Joseph Barton's service station which was entered and $12 in cash was taken.

on September 11th. Here the pair got only 15 cents.

Yesterday Carr was taken into custody near the Bristol boat wharf when he attempted to hide from Chief Jones. Chief Jones found Carr concealed beneath some weeds. Carr was questioned by Jones and Officer Ferry and implicated Manzo.

Late last night, Officers Ferry and Stackhouse arrested Manzo, who was questioned today by Chief Jones and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo. Both boys gave signed statements, the police state.

It was stated today by Manager Landreth that a list of the players for each team will be made public tomorrow.

Plan Co-operative Concert Association

for the week of Sept. 23rd, announced today.

Mrs. Megargee revealed that many prominent residents of the county have accepted invitations to serve as co-chairmen and workers and laid particular stress on the importance of a hundred per cent attendance at the last year Rec team, and several other promising recruits. The practice will really get under way this week-end. Manager Mulholland still wants more players out as he expects to carry 20 players. The season will open in about three weeks.

Additional members would mean Mrs. Megargee stated an almost unlimited choice of artists for this season's series of at least three outstanding concert attractions.

Final selection of the series will not be made until after the close of the drive when the exact amount of money available from membership dues is known. This method precludes the possibility of a deficit as the Association does not contract for artists until the money to pay for them is collected and held in escrow in a local bank. A large membership means greater purchasing power and consequently a more extensive choice of attractions.

Campaign headquarters will be opened on Mill street Monday morning and Mrs. Russell W. DeLong, campaign secretary will be on duty daily to answer calls, supply information and receive reports throughout the remainder of the week.

Concealing Damage

Berlin, Sept. 13—The British Government is hiding the true extent of damage wrought upon London by Nazi air raiders and the capital as vital nerve center of the empire has already been "mortally wounded," official German circles charged today.

Within the next eight days, official spokesmen declared, London is bound to become "a paralyzed, broken corps, crippled for generations."

Reconnaissance flights by German planes, it was said, are established in the fact that London's holocaust exceeds the historic burnings of Carthage and Rome, while the damage done in this war to Warsaw and Rotterdam will be regarded eventually as a "mere fractional preliminary."
